According to the United States Census in Miami Dade County approximately, 21 percent of the population lives below the poverty line. As a result, renters often hold onto an affordable apartment even if conditions are deplorable. People United to Lead the Struggle Equality (PULSE) has documented that the working poor are stuck in buildings like 6040 NW 12 Ave., where a recent state inspection found mold-like substances, live roaches, doors in disrepair, non-exiting fire suppression equipment's, and damaged electronic wires. In addition, $2.4Million unpaid code due to building and fire violations; Tenants say their New Jersey-based landlord Denise Vaknin is a slumlord who blatantly ignores city and county codes. The requested funding will go to restore an apartment complex with 12 single family units that is owned by Miami-Dade County. The apartment complex is in similar condition as the complex listed above and is located at 777 Northwest 30th St. Miami, Florida.
