SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The PCB abolishes the Florida Commission on Interstate Cooperation and the Florida Legislative Law Revision Council and repeals related provisions. Both the Commission and Council are obsolete, have not been active since 1977, and are no longer a part of the current governmental structure.

The PCB repeals Part I of Chapter 13, regarding the Florida Commission on Interstate Cooperation, and Part II of Chapter 13, regarding the Florida Legislative Law Revision Council.

Section 13.10, F.S., which relates to the Commissioners appointed to the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, is still active; therefore this section is not repealed, but transferred and renumbered as section 14.35, Florida Statutes.

This PCB either repeals or transfers the entirety of Chapter 13, F.S.

The act has an effective date upon becoming a law.

HOUSE PRINCIPLES

Members are encouraged to evaluate proposed legislation in light of the following guiding principles of the House of Representatives

- Balance the state budget.
- Create a legal and regulatory environment that fosters economic growth and job creation.
- Lower the tax burden on families and businesses.
- Reverse or restrain the growth of government.
- Promote public safety.
- Promote educational accountability, excellence, and choice.
- Foster respect for the family and for innocent human life.
- Protect Florida's natural beauty.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

This PCB abolishes the Florida Commission on Interstate Cooperation and the Florida Legislative Law Revision Council and repeals related provisions.

Background:

The Florida Commission on Interstate Cooperation was established in 1953 to further the cooperation among the states, federal and local units of governments.

House and Senate committees were formed through the Commission, however random checks of the House and Senate Journals from 1950s through 1990's show no evidence that such House and Senate Committees were ever implemented. Recent House and Senate journals and directories do not provide for these committees. Therefore the Commission appears to be obsolete.

Similarly, the Florida Legislative Law Revision Council was established in 1967 to further examine the common law and statutory law of the state and recommend changes.

According to the Division of Statutory Revision, the Council has not met since 1977. Section 13.995, F.S., provides that at each regular session of the Legislature an appropriation shall be made to carry out the purpose of the Law Revision Council; however, the Council has not been funded since 1976.

Section 11.242 (1), F.S., however, provides that the Office of Legislative Services shall conduct a systematic and continuing study of the statutes and laws of this state for the purpose of reducing their number and bulk, removing inconsistencies, redundancies, and unnecessary repetitions and otherwise improving their clarity and facilitating their correct and proper interpretation. The Division of Statutory Revision operates the continuous statutory revision system, for publishing and distribution of the Florida Statutes and Laws of Florida.

In 1995, the Speaker filed HB 1187, which would have repealed provisions relating to the Florida Commission on Interstate Cooperation and the Florida Legislative Law Revision Council; at that time, the bill was passed by the House but not acted on by the Senate.

B. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1. Repeals s. 13.01, F.S., which establishes the Florida Commission on Interstate Cooperation (hereinafter referred to as “the Commission”), and creates its membership.

Section 2. Repeals s. 13.02, F.S., which establishes the Senate Committee on Interstate Cooperation and creates its membership.

Section 3. Repeals s. 13.03, F.S., which establishes the House of Representatives Committee on Interstate Cooperation and creates its membership.

Section 4. Repeals s. 13.04, F.S., which provides terms and functions of both the House and Senate standing committees of the Commission.
