TIED BILLS: IDEN./SIM. BILLS: SB 730

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The Florida Constitution and Statutes require that the exercise of extra-territorial powers by a municipality be authorized by general or special law. These provisions have been interpreted to prohibit a municipality's governing body from holding meetings outside its boundaries absent enactment of a law authorizing such meetings.

PCS for HB 503 authorizes a municipal governing body to hold joint meetings with the governing body of the municipality's home county or the governing body of other municipalities to discuss and act on matters of mutual concern at a place and time prescribed by ordinance or resolution.

This bill will take effect on July 1, 2014.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Present Situation

County Government Meeting Authority:

The Florida Constitution provides non-charter counties the power of self-government as is provided by general or special law.¹ The legislative and governing body of a non-charter county has the power to carry on county government to the extent not inconsistent with general or special law.² Non-charter counties are further authorized to hold special and regular meetings at “any appropriate public place in the county,” after giving proper public notice.³ Charter counties have all powers of local self-government not inconsistent with general law or special law.⁴ These provisions give charter and non-charter counties the authority to hold joint meetings with cities at any place within the county.

Municipal Government Meeting Authority:

The Florida Constitution provides municipalities with the governmental, corporate and proprietary powers necessary to conduct municipal government, perform municipal functions, and render municipal services, and to exercise any municipal power for municipal purposes except as otherwise provided by law.⁵ This provision allows municipalities to hold joint meeting with county governments, however, unlike the laws regulating county meetings, the laws regulating municipal meetings are not explicit as to where municipalities may meet.

The Florida Constitution requires that the exercise of extra-territorial powers by a municipality shall be as provided by general or special law.⁶ Municipal bodies are authorized to adopt legislation concerning any subject matter upon which the Legislature may act, except for: “[t]he subjects of annexation, merger, and exercise of extraterritorial power, which require general or special law pursuant to s. 2(c), Art. VIII of the State Constitution.”⁷

The Florida Attorney General has recognized the Legislature’s role in authorizing extraterritorial powers. In a 2003 opinion concerning the authority of a municipality to meet roughly four miles outside its boundaries, the Attorney General wrote that city councils may not hold meetings outside municipal limits without authorization from general or special law, and that all acts and proceedings at meetings without statutory authorization are void.⁸

In 2008, the Legislature enacted ch. 2008-286, L.O.F., authorizing the City of Belleair Beach’s governing board to hold meetings outside the municipality’s boundaries at such time and place as prescribed by ordinance, resolution or interlocal agreement. Language in the bill provided that the city council was encouraged to hold its meetings in close proximity to the people it serves.

In 2011, the Legislature enacted ch. 2011-147, L.O.F., creating s. 166.0213, F.S., which authorized very small municipalities, defined as cities with populations of 500 or less, to hold meetings up to five miles outside their municipal boundaries.

Joint meetings between the governing bodies of cities and counties are common practice across the state. These meetings generally take place in the concerned city, however, legislative staff has found several instances of joint meetings held beyond municipal boundaries, including in the counties of Highlands,

Charlotte and Indian River.⁹ Joint meetings between municipalities are also common practice¹⁰ and by their nature cannot take place in both concerned municipalities at the same time.

In 2010, a civil complaint was filed against the Town of Lake Placid Commission for holding joint meetings with the Highlands County Commission in the county seat of Sebring, located approximately 20 miles away from Lake Placid.¹¹ The complaint alleged that the Town did not have the authority to meet beyond its municipal boundaries.¹² The Circuit Court ruled in favor of the Town of Lake Placid on Summary Judgment. The case is presently on appeal to the Second District Court of Appeals.¹³

Effect of Proposed Changes

PCS for HB 503 explicitly authorizes municipality governing bodies to hold joint meetings with county governing bodies and municipal governing bodies for the purpose of hearing, discussing, and acting upon matters affecting both parties. PCS for HB 503 gives municipalities the authority to determine the time and location of joint meetings by ordinance or resolution.

B. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1: Creates s. 166.0213(2), F.S., authorizing joint meetings between municipalities and counties at certain locations.

Section 2: Provides an effective date of July 1, 2014.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

Not Applicable. This bill does not appear to: require the counties or cities to spend funds or take an action requiring the expenditure of funds; reduce the authority that cities or counties have to raise revenues in the aggregate; or reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with cities or counties.

2. Other:

The Florida Constitution's Sunshine Law requires public meetings to be noticed and open to the public.¹⁴ Florida courts have held that "open to the public" means the public must be given a reasonable opportunity to attend open public meetings.¹⁵ The First District Court of Appeals held that a public meeting 100 miles away from the relevant jurisdiction was a violation of the state's Sunshine Laws because the affected citizens were not given a "reasonable opportunity to attend."¹⁶

In determining whether citizens have a "reasonable opportunity to attend" courts balance the interests of the body holding the public meeting versus the interests of the public in attending (the Rhea test).¹⁷ Factors in the balancing test include the distance of the meeting from the constituents it is affecting, efforts of the public body to minimize the impact of the distance, and the need for the public body to hold the meeting at a location that is further away than normal from its constituency.¹⁸ After passage of HB 503, cities and counties would still have to comply with s. 286.011, F.S., and the Rhea test. Nothing in this bill alters the Rhea test or authorizes cities and counties to disregard Florida's Sunshine Law.
