House Recognizes the Bicentennial Anniversary of Tallahassee as Florida's Capital

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (January 11, 2024) — Today, the Florida House of Representatives convened in the Florida Historic Capitol for the first time since 1977 to pass legislation celebrating Tallahassee's 200th anniversary as the capital of Florida.

"For two centuries, this city has served as a crucible for meaningful debate, the exchange of ideas, and positive change for the citizens of our state," said Speaker Paul Renner (R-Palm Coast). "Today, I had the privilege of presiding over the House Session in Florida's Historic Capitol to celebrate the bicentennial of Tallahassee as the seat of government for the Great State of Florida."

"Our remarkable town of Tallahassee has been the home of Florida's government for two hundred years," said Representative Allison Tant (D-Tallahassee). "This community has been filled with thought leaders, policy masters, brilliant academics, talented tradesmen and women, students learning at world-class universities, artists and authors, renowned scientists, civil rights leaders, champion sports teams, and wonderful citizens with giant hearts. As we celebrate the bicentennial, I am proud to sponsor this resolution on behalf of all of us who call Tallahassee home."
